Designing The Future Through Surfaces

Goodrich Global
SINCE 1983

COO Message

The future of design is not defined by individual materials, but by the surfaces that bring spaces to life.

At Goodrich Global, we believe that every material we introduce should create lasting value for the spaces of tomorrow. Surface Edits reflects our commitment to curating innovative surface solutions that combine design, craftsmanship, performance, and sustainability.

This inaugural edition brings together the latest advancements in bespoke wall designs, digital craftsmanship, acoustic solutions, high-performance commercial surfaces, sustainable materials and architectural films—carefully selected to support architects, interior designers and specifiers in creating inspiring, functional and enduring environments.

We invite you to explore these innovations and join us in shaping the future of interior surfaces.

Great design begins with thoughtfully curated materials that inspire, perform and endure.

As the industry evolves, so must we. This belief drives us to create Surface Edits Journal, a companion to our Surface Edits Event, a platform for material innovation, design inspiration, and specification excellence.

Together they reflect our commitment to helping the design community specify with confidence while embracing the future of material-led design.

Thank you for being part of this inaugural journey. I look forward to welcoming you to Surface Edits 2026, where together we will continue shaping the future of interior surfaces.

Designing The Future Through Surfaces

Surface Edits is more than an event or product showcase; it's where innovation and partnerships come together to shape the future of interior design.

Every generation of designers is defined by the way it responds to change. Today, interior surfaces have evolved beyond aesthetics. Walls, floors, fabrics, and architectural finishes are expected to enhance wellbeing, improve performance, support sustainability, and create memorable experiences. They have become powerful design elements that shape how people live, work, and connect.

For over four decades, Goodrich Global has collaborated with the design community, its role extending far beyond supplier of interior finishes. Today, the company is a trusted specification partner, providing innovative wallcoverings, flooring, fabrics, acoustic systems, decorative surfaces, and custom solutions backed by technical consultation, supply, and installation expertise.

As a Sangetsu Group member, Goodrich combines global innovation with regional expertise to transform the built environment through comprehensive surface solutions. We've turned ideas into award-winning destinations, workplaces, healthcare facilities, educational environments, and homes.

This premier edition showcases the ideas shaping tomorrow's interiors – from Goodrich Bespoke Wall

Designs, and Digital Craftmanship to Acoustic and Wellness Solutions, Commercial Performance, Sustainable Solutions and Walls Decoded.

At the heart of this journey is the Surface Edits Framework, our six pillars of surface innovation that reflect Goodrich Global's commitment to helping the design community specify with confidence while embracing the future of material-led design.

Through Surface Edits, our Design Clinics, the Goodrich Gallery, the Material Library, and our expertise in specification, supply and installation, we hope to inspire new ideas, encourage meaningful conversations and support the next generation of design excellence.

We're glad you're joining us on this inspiring journey. Here's to designing the future through surfaces!

Acoustic & Wellness Solutions

The importance of acoustic comfort continues to evolve as we live, work and connect. Today's interiors must support collaboration, sharpen focus, and create environments where people feel comfortable and inspired.

At Goodrich Global, we curate acoustic solutions that seamlessly integrate performance with design. Our portfolio combines innovative materials, refined craftsmanship and technical expertise to help architects and interior designers create quieter, healthier and more productive spaces without compromising aesthetics.

From decorative fabric panels to bespoke applications, every solution is chosen for its balance of sound absorption and design. Whether designing for hospitality, workplace, healthcare, education or residential environments, Goodrich's acoustic solutions help transform noise into comfortable spaces where conversations are clearer, productivity is enhanced, and every experience feels more considered.

Performance Leather Tiles

Pavoni Acoustic panels combine high-performance sound absorption with contemporary design, transforming any space into a more comfortable, harmonious and luxurious environment.

The leather finish enhances both the aesthetic and tactile aspects of an environment, while also promoting efficient sound dampening, resulting in spaces that are elegant. The Collection showcases a variety of textures and colors, which can be utilised separately or brought together for unique arrangements.

High-Performance Commercial Surfaces

Where form and function
unites with purpose

High-performance surfaces in commercial spaces are engineered materials designed to withstand intense foot traffic, severe impacts, harsh chemical cleanings, and moisture while maintaining their structural and aesthetic integrity over time. Unlike standard residential materials, these commercial-grade surfaces prioritise low lifetime maintenance, strict regulatory compliance, and long-term cost-efficiency.

Whether you are delivering a boutique hotel, or mixed-use project, our team ensures your interiors are thoughtfully designed, technically robust, and ready for market from day one.

PILLAR 6

Surface Renewal & Architectural Films

In interior design, surfaces are key to merging sustainability with style. The demand for surfaces that balance aesthetic appeal and adaptability has also grown, especially in commercial and hospitality spaces. This transformation encapsulates a future of design that is as mindful of beauty as it is of sustainable responsibility in its three aspects: social, environmental, and economic.

Goodrich's innovative surface renewal solutions offer a sustainable alternative to replacement, transforming existing spaces with minimal disruption and downtime. Our range includes self-adhesive architectural films, decorative glass films, privacy films, and surface renewal films, available in ultra-realistic wood, stone, metallic, and designer finishes that beautifully replicate the look and feel of natural materials. Ideal for walls, doors, lift interiors, furniture, cabinetry, partitions, and other interior surfaces, these solutions breathe new life into existing spaces while reducing renovation waste.

Our privacy glass films further enhance comfort and building performance by helping to reduce solar heat, block harmful UV rays, protect interior furnishings from fading, and provide enhanced privacy i.e. combining exceptional aesthetics with long-lasting functionality.
